Jerusalem, July 27, 2004

The Honorable Robert Zoellick
United States Trade Representative
Office of the U.S. Trade Representative
Washington, D.C.
United States of America

Dear Ambassador Zoellick,

I was pleased to receive your letter concerning certain aspects of trade in agricultural products, a copy of which is attached.

I have the honor to confirm that the understandings expressed in your letter (including its attachment and annexes) are shared by my government and that your letter and this reply shall constitute an agreement between our respective Governments, to come into force 45 days after the date of my letter.

With kind regards,

Sincerely,

Ehud Olmert

EXECUTIVE OFFICE OF THE PRESIDENT
THE UNITED STATES TRADE REPRESENTATIVE
WASHINGTON, D.C. 20501

JUL 27 2004

His Excellency Ehud Olmert
Vice Prime Minister and
Minister of Industry, Trade, Labor and Communications
State of Israel

Dear Mr. Minister:

I have the honor to confirm the following agreement reached between the delegation of the Government of the United States of America ("United States") and the delegation of the Government of Israel ("Israel") concerning certain aspects of trade in agricultural products. Israel and the United States acknowledge that the Agreement on the Establishment of a Free Trade Area between the Government of Israel and the Government of the United States of America ("FTAA"), dated April 22, 1985 (which corresponds to the first day of Iyar, 5745), applies in full to U.S. and Israeli agricultural products and to trade in these products between the two countries. However, both countries also acknowledge that they have differing interpretations as to the meaning of certain rights and obligations in Articles 2 and 6 of the FTAA as they relate to agricultural products. In the interest of achieving practical improvement in agricultural trade between the two countries, the United States and Israel have therefore agreed to set aside their differences and enter into this agreement through December 31, 2008, with regard to certain border measures of each party that relate to agricultural products of the other party (as defined in Annex 3 of the FTAA entitled "Rules of Origin").

This agreement is without prejudice to the parties' rights and obligations under Articles 2.1, 2.2, and 6 of the FTAA with respect to agricultural products and is without prejudice to the parties' other rights and obligations under the FTAA or the Marrakesh Agreement Establishing the World Trade Organization.

During the period January 1, 2004, through December 31, 2008, Israel shall accord agricultural products of the United States treatment no less favorable than that specified in the attachment to this agreement, and the United States shall accord agricultural products of Israel treatment no less favorable than that specified in the attachment to this agreement. The attachment and annexes to this agreement are an integral part of this agreement. During the period January 1, 2004, through December 31, 2008, both governments shall refrain from adopting, applying or otherwise maintaining any measures pursuant to Article 6 of the FTAA, unless such measures are otherwise specifically permitted by this agreement.

Beginning February 2004, the two governments agree to consult quarterly on the administration and utilization of quantities provided under the agreement by Israel for free import into Israel from the United States and by the United States for free import into the United States from Israel. The lead offices for these discussions shall be the Office of the U.S. Trade Representative and the U.S. Department of Agriculture for the United States and the Ministry of Industry and Trade and the Ministry of Agriculture for Israel.

To facilitate a better understanding of each party's agricultural economy in the course of future discussions on improving agricultural market access, either party may present information on factors of importance to their respective agricultural sectors. Such factors may include, but are not limited to: annual overall trade in a product, the scope of U.S.-Israeli trade in that product and the interests which each party has in expanding access to the other's market; trends in domestic production, prices and profitability of a product and the capacity for further market access; economic circumstances of producers, such as changes in rural income; the benefits of liberalization of agricultural trade, including benefits to consumers, trade and food processors; and additional agricultural policy considerations related to issues such as national and regional development priorities, government assistance, food security, special security conditions, and multilateral agricultural policy objectives. The aforementioned factors may be referenced by the parties and provide guidance in future discussions, including in the U.S.-Israel Joint Committee, on further improvements in agricultural market access.

No later than June 1, 2007, our two governments shall initiate a review of the operation of this agreement and seek ways to make further improvements. In the event it appears that negotiations will not be concluded by December 31, 2008, the parties mutually agree to address the issue of maintaining the treatment that each provides to the agricultural products of the other party under this agreement until such time as a new agreement is in force.

I have the honor to propose that this letter, the attachment to this letter, and annexes, which are authentic in English, and your letter of confirmation in reply constitute an agreement between our two governments, to enter into effect on this date.

Sincerely,

Robert B. Zoellick
United States Trade Representative
